

This project involved the design and construction of two new 3-storey open-plan office blocks, following demolition works, on the site which contains the famous Ealing Film Studios.

Existing buildings and the remainder of the studios remained in occupation during the course of the works and, as is normal practice, careful attention was paid to the maintenance of all access routes, keeping them in a clean and stable condition plus the avoidance of any nuisance, disturbance or damage from vehicular movements and the building works.

Ground floor areas of the existing building were refurbished to convert from offices into props storage and management facilities with artistes' ensuite dressing rooms with associated makeup facilities. Offices on the first and second floors were stripped out and refurbished whilst the original external features were retained.
