

In West London on the Lisson Green Estate, we have helped to change the physical environment, taking out the old walkways, access tower and empty garages under flats, converting the space into new housing units. New, more secure stairwells, lifts and entrances were then provided for the benefit of existing tenants, with additional new infill areas of two and three storey housing provided for PCHA tenants. This was Phase V of an ongoing development programme.

The tight conditions and the work required to ensure continual access to areas was a severe challenge to our tenant in occupation management skills, requiring careful planning and necessitating a full time Team Liaison Officer.
